Pastor John McKell had quite the health scare last week! He had a stroke at his home, and was air lifted from NAMC to UAB. The stroke had caused a brain bleed, but did not require surgery. Amazingly, John has not experienced any long-term effects from the stroke. WPC would like to thank Brandon Miles, Pastor First Presbyterian, for his amazing assistance during this emergency. Tom Lovell sent out immediate prayer requests from the Presbytery, and will be filling the pulpit for WPC on Dec 3. All praise to our Heavenly Father, The Great Physician!

Rookie bell ringer rings in holiday spirit

Dan James, a bell ringer for the Salvation Army's Red Kettle campaign, center, greets shoppers as they leave and enter the Walmart Supercenter off Cloverdale Road on Wed.

"It's a great thing to have that kind of an impact."

James agreed, adding that the opportunity to ring the bell has been a real blessing to him.

"Every encounter has been so positive," he said. "I would say at least 50% of the people who walk past donate, and so many will stop to say thank you or share a story."

FLORENCE — Wednesday morning was the coldest the Shoals has seen this season, but that did not keep first-time Salvation Army bell ringer Dan James from manning his Red Kettle campaign station.

"It's not always the easiest thing to do — it gets cold out here, and it can be hard to stay in one place for so long, but it's a worthwhile thing to do," said James, who decided to volunteer because retirement has given him extra time.

James said he is volunteering two days a week for approximately three hours per day — what he sees as a small amount of time to give to help those in need around the holidays.

"I'm a Christian, and I believe in helping those in need," he said. "I actually had a woman stop to tell me earlier that so many wouldn't have a good Christmas without volunteers doing things like this."

"To me, it's easy to just say 'hi, Merry Christmas,' and if folks donate, that's great, and if they don't, that's OK, too, but it still makes my Christmas spirit better"

According to James, he will likely ring the bell again next holiday season, too.

"Anytime I can help people who need a helping hand, think it's the right thing to do. I think people should consider trying to volunteer," he said. "If ringing the bells turns out not to be their cup of tea, they can find some other way to donate their time."

James hopes that this year's match day is a success. He said he always donates to the Salvation Army at Christmastime, and being involved as a volunteer this year opened his eyes to the goodness in the hearts of mankind.

"No one is making folks give — they're doing it from the goodness of their hearts, and that makes me feel good about mankind."
